

Step 10

We continued to take personal inventory, and when we were wrong, promptly admitted it.

We all have particular weaknesses and it is often helpful to establish personal boundaries to support these commitments to others. Honest inventories help us maintain boundaries important to our recovery. Restoring trust in our relationships is part of recovery. To do this we should define our expectations and cautiously enter into commitments. These relational commitments are not to be entered into lightly, and when we make them, they must be vigilantly maintained. An assessment of our honesty in keeping our commitments needs to be part of our regular inventory.

The Zephyrhills Recovery for Life Group

On September 5, 2010, Libbie started a new Recovery for Life group for individuals in the Zephyrhills area. This group originally met at the homeless shelter provided by Chancey Road Christian Church. For months, a large and enthusiastic group met on Tuesday evenings, averaging about 15 members and sometimes over 20. The group was moved to the Community Chapel Church of Christ on First Street in Zephyrhills and Pastor Joe Brown faithfully committed to leading the group, previously facilitated by Libbie.

The core group is now made up of a dozen people and approximately 15 have been attending and making great progress in their recovery. Doug Cole, the facilitator of the Friday night Chancey Road Christian Church Group is also assisting with the Zephyrhills group and frequently brings new members just released from the local jail or state prisons. We are thankful for a facilitators and their heart for our members. Please join us in prayer each week for our RFL groups!
